INDIA LEADERS SERVING TIME FOR ACTIVITIES

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Three of the most active followers of Ghandi, the independence leader in India, have been removed from activity for the time being by the sentence of two years' imprisonment imposed at Ranchi, India, of Mahomed Ali Shaukat and Dr. Kitchlew on charges of sedition and causing disaffection among the troops.

According to information received here, the Ali brothers have been a source of trouble to the British government for some years. They were interned in 1915 on charges of having promoted sympathy for the king's enemies in the war. Four years later, in 1919, they were imprisoned on charges of disloyalty in the Afghan war, but were released after about six months' imprisonment, under a royal proclamation of clemency toward political prisoners at the time of the passing of the India reform act.

It is claimed that they at once renewed their activity against the government. Mahomed Ali was selected leader of the Calcutta delegation which came to London last year and was granted interviews by the prime minister.

On returning to India it is charged that he promoted the migration of pious Mussulmans from India to Afghanistan, which migration was part of the Calcutta agitation. Some 18,000 persons left their homes in the frontier provinces of India, but soon returned after suffering severe hardships in Afghanistan.

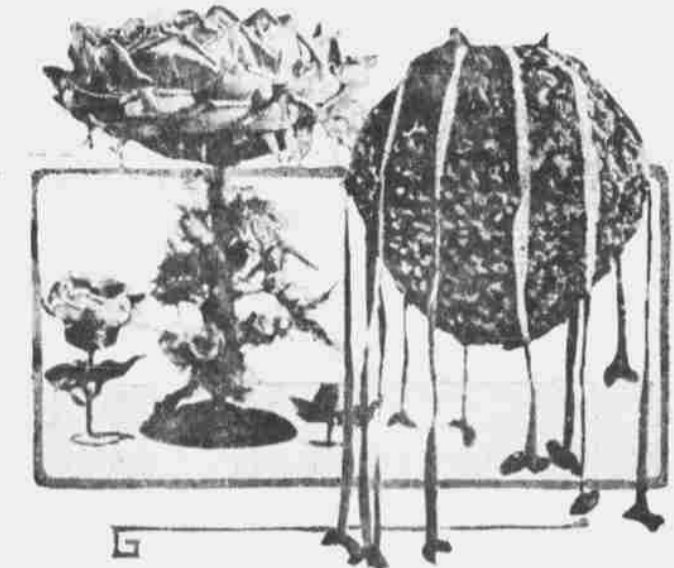

The government charged that the Ali brothers were in close association with Ghandi and moved up and down the country conducting a campaign of non-co-operation and maintaining contact with the militant fervor of their co-conspirators.

PAPER AIDS THE HOSTESS IN MANY CHARMING WAYS

PHOTOGRAPHS could only convey color and light one might gather something of the beauty of the many household decorations that are made of paper. There is an amazing number of things with which the countenance of a room may be so changed that it is transformed. And there are many small permanent furnishings that are made at home of paper, possessing as much beauty and more individual charm than those same things as found in the shops. Lamps and lampshades, candleholders and candle shades, wall panels, portieres, vases, baskets and small lanterns or electric light shades are among them. To these the home-maker and the hostess add many pretty ornaments, as occasion calls for them, that have their brief and beautiful day and are replaced by something new.

In the picture above decorations for a table are shown, together with a shade for electric lights. The rose is the inspiration for this pretty scheme, and crepe paper in the American beauty and lighter shades serve to carry it out.

As a centerpiece for the table, a wire standard fastened to a cardboard base supports a cardboard box. This is signed and has a cover. The base, standard, box and lid are covered with green paper, the lid only on the inner side. Big rose petals are pasted about the inside edge of the box and the upper side of the lid. Altogether they form a huge, full-blown rose as pictured. Small half-open buds and asparagus ferns are twined about the standard. Single roses on wire standard make pretty holders for candles and candles and place cards are still smaller rosebuds with rose leaves and the name on white card board fastened to the standard.

There are many little surprises in fancies that may be concealed in the centerpiece. The globe for lamp or electric light has a wire frame for its foundation, covered first with its crepe paper or crepe paper. Little rose petals are pasted all over this, and streamers of paper having petals at their ends fall from the top of it. These are only suggestions for a rose luncheon—there are many ways for making the light shades and using the rose petals.

GREAT ISLAND FORTRESS NOW BEING RAZED

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The great German fortress of Heligoland probably will be completely demolished by next April. Its demolition has been in progress for two years under the supervision of an international commission headed by Admiral Sir Edward Charlton, who is said to be satisfied that the island fortress can never again be a menace to the allies.

When the work of destruction is complete, it will be inspected by the commission and then the island will be handed back to Germany, under the provisions of the peace treaty.

The commission has taken nothing for granted, but naval officers have watched the great guns cut into pieces and have demanded that the scrap metal be produced when the Germans reported that they had destroyed cartridges, cases, fuses, etc. Besides they have personally watched the burning of vast stores of explosives. It is understood that Admiral Charlton is satisfied that very little in the way of warlike stores can have been concealed by the Germans. The gun emplacements and harbor works have been destroyed and batteries of howitzers and aircraft guns demolished.

To make certain that Heligoland can not again be utilized as a site upon which to build a harbor for battleships, the commission has placed blocks of stone and concrete about the bed of the harbor so that dredging will not be possible. Eventually it is believed the harbor will be destroyed by the sea.

TREASURE HUNT TAHITI ISLAND IS SUCCESSFUL

(By Associated Press)

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Nov. 22.—The year 1921 has been the open season for treasure hunting in the islands. Every month or so a report that the vast treasure—alleged to have been buried some 60 years ago—on the island of Pinaki had at last been located, has induced a new company of adventurous Papuan capitalists to equip a fresh expedition only to return with nothing more than a goodly load of sunburn and back aching from the strenuous exercise of digging for weeks in the blistering coral sand.

Then, early in the year, came the yacht Genesee from New York in search of a great treasure of gold, said to have been left on the island of Tapai-Manu, in the western Societies, by the German Pacific squadron when they were flying from the pursuing British and Japanese fleets in 1914. Much real estate on Tapai-Manu flew into the firmament on that occasion, under the action of good charges of dynamite, but the Genesee sailed away, leaving the treasure to be discovered by a future explorer. And now there is the story of a new treasure. The tale is that about 50 years ago a Chilean warship deposited on the island of Moorea a treasure of gold belonging to the Chilean government of that time—as a measure to keep it from falling into the hands of a strong revolutionary party. The revolution must have been successful, for none returned to take away the gold, the story runs. Years afterward, however, the Protestant missionary at Moorea received a letter from a priest in Chile enclosing an outline drawing, easily recognized as the outline of the mountain peaks about Opunaki bay in Moorea, asking for information of the location of the island so represented, and stating he had knowledge of a treasure buried there. The missionary, having visions of ungodly adventures corrupting his flock, decided to tear up the letter and drawing without dispatching the answer.

Nothing more was heard of the affair until a month ago when a stranger arrived in the island bearing charts and drawings which, he claimed, would lead him to the treasure.

Reports from Moorea state that, at the place indicated on his chart, on digging down, he came upon a concrete slab, and great was the excitement until the slab was broken through and a cavity, about three feet in depth, was disclosed, containing absolutely nothing. The seeker is, however, hopeful, and is hard at work digging and sounding in the valleys about the bay.

STILL IN C. O. D. LEDGE

The shaft of the Deep Mines company, which at a depth of 1030 feet cut the C. O. D. ledge, is in that body of quartz a distance of 15 feet, without any indications of footwall. The values at this point are low. No lateral work will be done here at present, but the shaft will be continued down to its main objective, the 2400-foot point.—Goldfield Tribune.

Burglars Don't Seek the Light!

Darkness is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that see the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The merchant who is not sure of his goods does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to a test he could not meet.

The merchant who advertises deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product and then lets it stand on its own merits. You can depend on him. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements in THE BONANZA. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business houses are spending their money to introduce and keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. READ THEM!
